

Business Responds To Lending Plan of 2 U. S. Agencies

Small Business Concerns Sink SEC and RFC With Inquiries Under Simplified Registration Procedure

Huge Sum to Lend Government Has $1,500,000,000 of Lendable Funds Ready for Distribution

Washington, April 22 (P)—Officials of the securities commission and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation reported today that business men were responding in increasing numbers to administration lending proposals.

A spokesman said the RFC was "putting the steam on" to take care of loan applications pouring into its 72 regional offices, chiefly from small business men wanting some of the agency's $1,500,000,000 of lendable funds.

From an SEC official came word that the commission had been "swamped" with inquiries about its simplified registration procedure. Undertaken at the request of President Roosevelt as part of his economic program, this simplification was designed to make it easier and faster for business interests to register small issues.

SEC regional offices in Seattle, Denver, Chicago, San Francisco and New York, it was learned, have been so pressed by business men for information on the new procedure that they have telephoned headquarters here for more detail.

Figures Lacking

The RFC lacked definite figures on increases in loan applications, because the latest requests are still pending in regional offices, but activity was described as especially heavy in New York. The small business men's association set up headquarters in a hotel there and assisted in filling out applications.

The treasury advanced its program to expand credit resources by deciding to begin moving its $1,499,000,000 gold credit to the Nation's Bank at the rate of $50,000 a week.

Congressional leaders meanwhile were discussing a proposal that a public works program for railroads be woven into the President's lending-spending campaign.

The carriers would supply materials for maintenance projects, and the government would pay for labor. Workers would be chosen from among those whom the railroads have furloughed.

Chairman Wheeler (D., Conn.) of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee said he would talk over the plan with WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins and other officials when they meet next week to draw up emergency railroad legislation.

Hope To Aid Railroads

After conferring yesterday with railroad labor and management representatives, Wheeler expressed the hope that some measures could be passed at this session to relieve the railroads' financial plight.

Considerable interest centered here on the purpose of President Roosevelt's luncheon conference yesterday with Henry Ford, whose personal business policies frequently have run counter to the policies of the Roosevelt administration.

Republican criticism of the spending phases of the program broke out briefly in the House when Representative Tamer (R., N. Y.) declared Mr. Roosevelt's proposals would entail appropri-

Dionne Anxious

Quintuplets' Father Would Know Where Money Is Being Spent and How

Ottawa, April 22 (Canadian Press)—Olive Dionne, the Canadian farmer-father of the quintuplets, is trying to get a judicial investigation of the way their lives and finances are being managed by their guardians.

An Ottawa lawyer, Henri St. Jacques, announced he had been retained by Dionne and had sent the request for a judicial investigation to Attorney General Conant of Ontario.

This presented the possibility the story of the quintuplets and their accumulation of a fortune of $75,000 made in movies and advertising would be told for the first time in a law court.

St. Jacques said his purpose was to learn if the fortune were being dissipated.

It has been estimated that $2,000 is spent each month in keeping up the nursery where Annette, Yvonne, Cecile, Marie and Eline live 100 yards from the modest Dionne farm home where they were born May 23, 1934.

This includes the $200 a month salary of Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe, one of the guardians and the physician who brought them into the world. $100 a month to their parents, and salaries to teachers, nurses, housekeepers and guards, and auxiliary expenses.

Ulster Big Apple Rolls Into New York And Girls Invite Whalen to Festival

Bankrupt Queen

New Yorkers' "Mouths Water" as Apple and Six Girls Arrive

A boat, carrying the state's "big apple" and six pretty girls who aspire to be Ulster county's apple blossom queen, stopped in front of the Empire State Building today, according to the Associated Press.

And presently Grover A. Whalen, president of the New York World's Fair, was receiving an invitation to attend the Ulster county festival at Kingston on May 6.

The young women were Jane Ball, Joan Cunningham, Virginia Whitson, Amy Munro, Edna Beatty and Gladys Klotz, all high school students. Their visit was part of the state's "eat more apples" drive.

The "big apple" is four feet, seven inches tall and is nearly 21 feet in circumference, and was constructed by Agriculture Department employees originally for exhibition at last year's state fair in Syracuse.

The original plan was to have the float roll out to the fair grounds at Flushing, but Whalen was detained in Manhattan by several appointments, so the presentation of the scroll, inviting him to Kingston next May, was made at the Empire State Building.

After the Empire State Building visit the float and the girls went to city hall to be welcomed by William Fellowes Morgan, commissioner of markets, and other officers.

Bud Donation Receipts

The final report of the Bud Donation Drive in Ulster county, conducted last Saturday by the County Legion Auxiliary and 4-H Clubs under the guidance of Mrs. Harry A. Whitman, county auxiliary president, was made today to the general chairman of the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival, Roger H. Loughran.

The total amount received was $253.84.

The amounts raised by the sale of buds in the city and various villages follow:

12-Year-Old Bride Separated From Husband

Wilmington, Del., April 22 (P)—The walls of the Wilmington detention home stood today between 12-year-old Almira Mae McChesney and her 37-year-old fisherman husband of nine days.

The slender, dark-haired girl, who says "I love Sam and Sam loves me," was held on a juvenile court order, issued on complaint of her mother last February and still pending.

State police took the girl into custody last night as she, her husband, Samuel, and members of her family with whom they have been staying, ate the first dinner Almira ever cooked.

Judge E. R. Willey, who issued the order, after a conference with Deputy Attorney General Caleb M. Wright, declared:

"The marriage was definitely illegal. It will be promptly dissolved. We will show the rest of the nation that Delaware will not tolerate child marriage."

Lavendar Arrested

Chicago, April 22 (P)—Federal agents announced today the arrest of Charles Edmund Lavendar, 36, on charges of attempting to extort $30,000 from Murray Levine, father of 12 year old Peter Levine, who has been missing from his New Rochelle, N. Y., home since February 24.

Heck Sees "Heck" of a Time on Relief

Schenectady, N. Y., April 22 (P)—Oswald D. Heck, speaker of New York's assembly, believes the state constitutional convention is headed for a battle on relief.

Addressing a modern "town meeting" of which he was chairman here, Heck predicted a clash between urban and rural interests over the entire relief problem in the state.

"And," he added, "it will likely result in the greatest division of forces in the convention."

Speaking as an individual and not as a representative of any party, Heck continued:

"Relief is as permanent a part of governmental responsibility as taxes. The problems which beset the rural sections have no interest for the urban dweller and attempts to solve the problem must inevitably lead to a clash of both forces."

"This division will be particularly accentuated in those cases where the interests of upstate communities clash with the interests of the City of New York, irrespective of political affiliation."

'Neutrality Act a Success as Far as Possible'—F. D. R.

President at Press Conference Declares Act Prevents U. S. From Favoring Any One Warring Nation

Check Defenses

Senate Committee to Make Study of All U. S. Defenses This Summer

Washington, April 22 (P)—President Roosevelt defined one of the prime purposes of the neutrality act today as being to prevent this country from penalizing one warring nation and so favoring another.

He declared the law had been satisfactorily applied insofar as possible.

Discussion of neutrality came up at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference in connection with talk of his luncheon with Senator Borah (R.-Idaho) yesterday, indicating that it had been one of the subjects discussed.

The senator and he, the President said, agreed on substantially everything they talked about, including the question of monopolies.

Replying to questions, Mr. Roosevelt said the present law had two objectives:

1.—To prevent the United States becoming involved in a foreign war.

2.—To prevent this country giving aid to one side against the other when a foreign war takes place.

This meant, he said, the country should not penalize one side against the other.

Does Not Amplify Statement

He declined to amplify his remarks much beyond that except to suggest to reporters present that they could use their imaginations to see how that statement worked out.

Neutrality, the president continued, has been satisfactorily applied in so far as that was possible under present law.

The question he answered in making that remark referred specifically to the situations in Spain and China.

Asked whether he could embargo arms shipments to Italy and Germany under the law, Mr. Roosevelt said he could not, adding that neither could arms shipments to the French, or British, be embargoed.

He was asked to name the limitations he felt existed in the present law but declined to do so.

Meanwhile it was disclosed that members of the house naval and military committee will make a thorough check-up this summer on the nation's defenses, from Maine to Hawaii and from the Panama Canal to Alaska.

Beery Today Goes To Coogan's Help In Earnings Fight

Los Angeles, April 22 (P)—Betty Grable, $500-a-week film dancer, told today of ignoring a warning by her mother-in-law that she was marrying a "poker face," if she married Jackie Coogan.

As Betty described what she said were Mrs. Lillian Coogan Bernstein's efforts to break off her son's two-year engagement, Wallace Beery, a friend of Jackie's kid days in the movies, rallied to his support in his legal fight for a share of his screen fortune.

A hearing was scheduled in court today on the petition by Mrs. Bernstein and Jackie's step-father, Arthur L. Bernstein, to dismiss the receivership declared on the Coogan estate when the 23-year-old former star filed a $4,000,000 accounting suit against the couple last week.

Jackie maintained, and Mrs. Bernstein denied, that his father, Jack Coogan, Sr., had intended to give him his accumulated film earnings when he came of age.

The elder Coogan was killed in an automobile accident in 1935, shortly before Jackie's 21st birthday.

"We are again upon an inflationary course," he said.

"If every time there is a recession in business the only way out that a government can find is a further huge expenditure program to be applied on top of expenditures already too great, then we shall go bankrupt."

"It is not yet too late to pull up and save ourselves and pay our honest debts. We can pay the public debt of these United States if we are honest and economical. But we will have to economize—we will have to stop our spendthrift course."

To "The Kid's" cause, Beery, a veteran star, added his word to the cause, rubbing his jaw in a characteristic meditative gesture as he spoke:

"Not once, but many times—more than a dozen, I think—Jack told me that he had never used or intended to use a cent he earned."

"Every penny the boy was making was being put away and saved for him, Jack said on several occasions. He was careful to give to the time when he came of age. The elder Coogan was killed in an automobile accident in 1935, shortly before Jackie's 21st birthday.

Jackie maintained, and Mrs. Bernstein denied, that his father, Jack Coogan, Sr., had intended to give him his accumulated film earnings when he came of age.

The other groups proposed proportional representation as a means of ending the "spoils system and its consequent extravagant government."

Meanwhile, delegates to the two-day session of the National Municipal League out of which will grow a convention program arrived here for the opening deliberations today.

United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democratic, minority leader of the convention, is scheduled to address the body tonight.

Woman Credited Package Racket Is With Paving Way Nipped in Bud as For Italian Pact Fails

Lady Chamberlain Utilized Secretary of Proposed Victim And Chief Police Wood Prevent Payment of $910

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

New York, April 22 (P)—They say it was a woman who laid the groundwork for the Italo-British peace pact.

Lady Chamberlain, widow of the late Sir Austen Chamberlain, who attained international fame as a builder of peace, is credited with lending a hand to the making of a treaty which may be arranged by posterity as a determining factor in the struggle between democracy and dictatorship.

Lady Chamberlain is the widow of British Premier Neville Chamberlain, and daughter-in-law of one of the most colorful English statesmen of all time, the great Joe Chamberlain, now dead.

She used the many friendships she made as a partner of her statesman-husband to clinch the rift which has existed between the two countries since Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia.

It was my privilege to have the friendship of Sir Austen, and he once made a most striking confession to me about the influence which his wife had exerted on his official career.

Sir Austen's Influence

Sir Austen was at the height of his fame as foreign minister of Britain. He wielded more influence in some ways than any other man.

The immediately dressed and bejeweled foreign secretary that was almost terrifying. His brother, the present premier, has some of this, which seems to be a family characteristic.

I was spending the day with Sir Austen in his picturesque Queen's country home in a hamlet called Five Acres, down among the green old Sussex hills.

The racket opened when a telephone call was received at the residence of Sir Austen, who said he was a physician in New Jersey and who obtained the name of the secretary of the local residence. Thursday an alleged勒索信 was found in the mailbox purporting to be signed by the resident which stated arrangements had been made with a "Mr. Tie" to make delivery of a package.

Telephone Calls

It instructed her to call at the Essex Hotel in Newark, N. J., having with her the sum of $910 in cash which was to pay for the package. The勒索信 was followed by two long distance telephone calls which informed the secretary how she was to dress and where she was to meet him and deliver the money and receive the package.

Chief Wood sent a teletype message outlining the勒索信 to the Newark police department. He also was able to get in touch with the resident who is spending a vacation in the south and the resident informed Chief Wood that the affair was undoubtedly a勒索信 as he had purchased no article to be delivered to his secretary and had cabled no instructions to her whatever.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Parking Regulations

Saugerties, April 22.—It was decided at the last meeting of the Village Board of Trustees that the parking of vehicles on the east side of Partition street be prohibited and that one hour parking on the west side be allowed between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. The trustees feel that the above regulations will help to better conditions which at times are congested. The police department has been asked to cooperate. The order will become effective May 15 with suitable signs to be placed on the curb. On May 15 the one hour parking will also be effective on Main from Partition to West Bridge streets and Second streets.

GOING AHEAD

Officials of a large American corporation have just decided to go ahead with the construction of a million-dollar plant they have long planned and needed. Some months ago they obtained funds for the project through issuance of a new common stock. Then they became cautious.

"Mounting uncertainties on the business horizon delayed the decision to undertake a project of this size," explains the president of the company. But after a period of waiting and marking time they have come to the conclusion that they might as well build. Their business needs the new plant. They have the money for it. They believe that there will be continued demand for their product.

It looks to us as if this concern, and a few others that have acted in the same confident way during the last few months, have hit upon as good a way as any to dispel the "mounting uncertainties on the business horizon."

DEMOCRACY

Another group of German exchange students coming to this country find things very strange. In one city the mayor greets them, saying: "We hope that you pupils will catch the spirit of this community when you are going through our civic buildings. Here every kind of organization meets to express its own peculiar views. Last night, for instance, the Communists took over Public Hall and let go. Free speech and free expression are essential in our government. We hope to live our own lives according to the principles of democracy."

Then the visitors were given leaflets describing the city's "cultural gardens" in the public parks, planted with characteristic shrubs and flowers of various racial groups. On the first page were pictures of the German garden and on the second page were pictures of the Hebrew garden. That, though perhaps unintentional, was a neat touch. It was interesting to see the expression on the faces of those boys and girls as they turned the page.

THE BLAND DIET

A patient sent into hospital to rest for 30 days because of a heart ailment was bemused by the fact that he would become even more constipated than at present because he would get no no

To his surprise his physician told him that he would be less constipated because his type of constipation was the spastic type—spasms which tighten the intestine in spots and prevent the wastes going downward and out of the body.

"Why, Mr. Blank, you'll get so much rest for mind and body, will become so relaxed that your intestine will likewise relax, and by giving you a bland, non-irritating diet you will have no spasms nor the constipation due to these spasms."

What is known as the bland diet leaves out or cuts down on acid foods—meat, eggs, fish, and cereals—the alcohol beverages, and condiments, all of which stimulate overactivity of the stomach and intestine. Also the coarse foods—cabbage, corn, cauliflower, raw apples, celery, pears, and bread are omitted.

In preparing food in the bland diet, Dr. Harry Gauss in his book, "Clinical Dietetics", says:

"All foods should be cooked, preferably boiled, except rich foods which are easily digested in the raw state such as butter, cream and milk. In addition to boiling, food may be prepared by baking and roasting, but fried foods in all forms are considered difficult to digest; likewise all greasy foods are avoided as they are also hard to digest. Preserved meats, fish, and pork are avoided."

The diet list to be followed by patients gives plenty of inviting and nourishing food.

Breakfast: Cooked fruit—apples, prunes, pears, peaches; cereals—any cooked cereal such as oatmeal, wheat, barley, and farina; eggs—soft-boiled or poached; bread—white, plain or toasted; butter; milk; coffee (if allowed).

Lunch and Supper: Soups—cream and vegetable soups; meat—any boiled, broiled or baked roast or meat, except pork; fish—any fresh water fish if baked or broiled; vegetables—boiled or baked such as asparagus tips, beets, celery, carrots, potatoes, spinach, sweet potatoes, pumpkins; cottage cheese; white bread and butter; desserts such as bread pudding, rice custard, corn starch puddings, tapioca, ice cream, cooked apples, pears, prunes; beverages—milk, corona, water, chocolate.

It is of utmost importance that the reason for this change is found in the educators' new attitude toward the youthful trouble-makers. There never were as many "bad" boys as people thought. Truancy, misbehavior in school, street fighting, breaking windows, and so on, are recognized as evidence that a boy needs social help, not punishment. Instead of sending such youngsters to a school which will stigmatize them as "bad", the school authorities study their background and environment and provide a program of education for them in terms of individual needs.

Often this social service approach calls for only a few simple adjustments in the boy's life. Sometimes a longer and more detailed program is indicated. The cases of real incorrigibility are few and doubtless must be handled apart from the public school. Only shortsightedness and ignorance ever branded all troublesome children with such a label.

The Story So Far: Judith Good-

ie, of an old Maryland family, marries self-made Reuben Oliver for his money—only to discover he is bankrupt. Twins are born. Then Reuben gets work in a lumber camp managed by Gary Brent—the man Judith loves. Judith's tent is not ready when the twins arrive, and Gary provides her with a cabin. When Reuben discovers this, the old blues of "Trying to live by Judith's codes" has weakened Reuben. Now he will make his own laws. Hating Gary bitterly, Reuben insists on renting the cabin from him.

vital spark of jealousy, which had smoked suddenly since the day he asked Judith to marry him. No, there could be no friendship now or ever, and when work threw them together?

Unerringly Reuben knew that even the semblance of peace would vanish then. He was an expert forester—Gary a puppet in authority. Reuben knew that Gary was unfit for his job. Gary knew that Reuben knew it, but he also knew that necessity had its iron heel on Reuben's neck.

With a frown Reuben dismissed all thought of Gary. Time enough to meet the trouble when he had to go. There was no doubt in his mind that he would have to.

Before he went back to the woods on Monday, Reuben had found and hired a Chinese boy, Alf, grinning and garrulous, stepped out and Lu Wing, slovenly and silent, stepped in. "Now," Reuben thought grimly, "I've mortgaged myself for every dollar I make but maybe it's worth it. But he knew it wasn't worth it. Knew he was still moving with the landslide. Where?

He would not think where he would eventually crash. Time enough for that, too.

New Respect

JUDITH'S delight in her new home would once have been heart-warming to the man who loved her despite himself. Now he watched her remotely impersonal as one watches a moving picture critical of its flaws and high spots though affected by neither.

The change in him conveyed itself to Judith. She had felt it since the moment he handed her the cabin's key. His lips had apologized then for the quarrel of the night before but the old humility had been his since the day he had moved her from the Waldorf to a cheaper hotel was missing. The doleful, unspoken plea for her help and patience was missing too.

Something had gone from Reuben—mysteriously gone forever. But something new had come to take its place. Judith sensed it without being able to define it. She had no way of knowing that out of the dark confusion of the night, a clarifying light had burst upon her husband, wiping the blur from his vision. Giving him an almost uncanny insight into affairs as they were. Giving him back the belief in his own sense of values unclouded by the ethics of his wife.

Curiously Judith watched him as one watches a suspicious, wholly puzzling stranger and though she did not know it there was a new respect in her glance. Iron was visible in Reuben's face now—iron and what else?

Though she searched Judith couldn't find the answer. He went back to his work and Gary came to take her riding and almost immediately Reuben receded from her thoughts until he was only a shadow in the background of her life. Joyously she reached out for each new day. Just to feel a good horse between her knees. To hear the music of clattering hoofs, the rush of early morning air in her face—to meet Gary's twinkling blue eyes.

"This is the life, Judy!"

"Old days come again, Gary."

"Old days," he echoed and knew he lied. These were not the old days of light banter and meaningless caresses. These were days of inarticulate tenderness. Veiled glances. Long silences too magically sweet to be broken.

Strange! In the old days Judith had acted to hear words. Hated the waiting. Now she fended to keep words from being uttered. Loved the waiting.

It was herself she feared now.

"I'm glad you're here," said Gary.

Kiwanis Enjoys

A visit to one of the numerous central offices of the New York Telephone Co. in New York city, with Edwin C. Hill as guide and commentator, was enjoyed by members of the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel, the medium of the visit being the talking motion picture, furnished the club through Clarence Burnett of the local telephone office.

An additional feature of the day was a commentary on the history and mechanics of the French Horn by E. L. Cox, who traced the instrument from the field where it was used for hunting calls, to the drawing room where it became an object to produce tones and variations associated with accomplished musical works. The addition of valves, the use of the hands and the part the player's lips have in producing tones was fully explained in interesting fashion. The demonstration ended with the playing of "Indian Love Call," rendered in a manner to brand Mr. Cox an expert at the instrument.

New Project.

Mr. Burnett's pictorial trip was the result of a new project of the telephone company, that of holding "open house" at its various New York offices during which time the complicated mechanics of the telephone service are fully explained. The picture depicted such a visit and traced the telephone message from the time it entered the building over one of a network of thousands of wires, its journey through the various automatics and its way to a proper destination. Associated instruments and machinery were pictured and explained.

Second part of the features was the "telephone news" series, this particular one being concerned with the uses of the tele-type-writer, the building of a huge vacuum type similar to the small ones used in the home radio, but designed for transmitting and capable of producing immense power. The concluding newscast was concerned with radio telephone antennas and the various accomplishments of each particular type.

Interesting Facts.

Prior to the picture Mr. Burnett presented a few interesting facts concerning the local telephone system. He noted that there were 7,800 telephones in operation in Kingston, or about one to every 3 1/3 families; that over these phones passes some 38,000 local calls every day and about 1,100 toll calls; that such service necessitated 78 local operators of which 44 are on duty at one time that the total local payroll numbered 160 persons.

President Paul Zucca introduced the speaker and thanked him for the entertainment and information presented in the program. Mr. Zucca also led the singing in the absence of Harold Clayton. He was assisted at the piano by Danny Blitner.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schiller spent Sunday in Schenectady with their daughter, who is employed in Schenectady's largest department store.

The Ladies' Aid Society held its annual meeting and dinner on Thursday at Main Arch Home-stead, Hurley. Twenty-six were seated at the tables and enjoyed a fine turkey dinner. At the business meeting following annual reports were given and election of officers was held. $400 had been raised by the society during the year. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Arthur Deyo; vice president, Mrs. Lloyd Keator; secretary, Mrs. Herman Ormers; treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Clark. Mrs. Willis Keator, who had served as treasurer for 16 years, tendered her resignation. This was accepted with great reluctance and a rising vote of thanks was given for her very efficient and faithful service. A vote of thanks was also given the retiring president, Mrs. Van Nostad.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Keator entertained their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Keator, of Amsterdam for Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Merrithew had as their guests Easter Sunday their daughter and family of Rensselaer, and Mrs. Merrithew's brother and aunt of New York.

Mrs. Sirnest and daughter had company over the week-end.

Mrs. Richard Demarest, who has been spending the winter in New York city, returned to her home in Tillson, Tuesday afternoon.

The Easter Bibles in the Reformed Church were given by the Ladies' Aid Society, the church choir, the Sunday school and Mrs. R. Demarest, in memory of her husband. At the close of service they were given to the shut-ins.

Strength in Bond Mart Follows New 'Easy Money Policy'

Effects of the new "easy" money policy were seen yesterday as there was continued strength in the bond market and a new issue of $6,000,000 by Consolidated Edison quickly went to a premium. The Edison offering opened at 101½ and late in the afternoon went to 102½ bld.

The success of this issue led to the forecast that other long-dated high-class issues might now be placed on the market. Banks were reported to be heavy purchasers as they hastened to put idle funds to work, their investment funds being swollen by the Federal Reserve's decision to lower reserve requirements. Interior commercial banks were seen reentering the now issue market on a broad scale for the first time since the latter part of 1936.

Secretary Morgenthau announced that $350,000,000 of bills maturing this week would be redeemed with funds derived from gold sterilization and said that until further notice the Treasury would refund only half of its weekly bill maturity of $100,000,000.

Following a series of conferences in Washington yesterday Senator Wheeler indicated that he would press for enactment at this session of Congress an emergency relief program for the railroads. The program will include: $400,000,000 in federal loans for rail equipment; more liberal RFC loans to "border line" roads; possible provision for WPA work for furloughed rail employees; regulation of water carriers by the ICC; elimination of government land grant rates. Chairman Harrison of the Railway Labor Executives Association stated that labor would not voluntarily accept a pay reduction.

Stocks were irregular yesterday; were up the first hour, off during the middle of the day and finally closed higher. Industrials were up 0.50 point to 115.40 in the Dow-Jones averages; rails showed a slight gain to 21.33; utilities were up 0.51 to 18.03. Wheat was irregular; cotton was up 8 to 11 points.

Foreigners increased their holdings in U. S. Steel common during the first quarter of the year. England, Holland and Canada were among those adding to their ownership in the stock. UAW closed all eight plants of Rohm Aluminum & Brass Corp. in Detroit, following strike vote late Wednesday. Strike vote at Bulek and Chevrolet plants continues until Saturday.

Engineering construction awards for the week totaled $39,430,000, a 50 per cent decline from previous week and 11 per cent under like period in 1937.

General Baking had net income of $77,639 for 13 weeks ended March 26, vs $20,478 in 1937 period.

National Cash Register had net of $608,196 in first quarter, comparing with $817,884 in like quarter in 1937.

American Rolling Mill reports loss of $197,310 in first quarter. Compares with net profit of $2,320,916 in 1937 quarter.

Square Dance Not Entirely American, Say Cheats and Swings

In the above picture, taken in the Woodstock Art Gallery, where this well known group practices its folk-sets, are Dyrus Cook, Percy Hill, Walter Shultz, Dick Grey, Willard Allen, Frances Woiciske, Alfred Van Etten, Rose Petrucci and Irwin Arlt. The square dance contest at the Maverick will be an outstanding feature of the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival.

Woodstock, April 21 — From time to time various individuals have piqued public interest by appearing on the stage, screen and on the radio concealing their identity behind masks and billing themselves individually as the Masked Marvel.

This subterfuge has made its appearance in the square dancing contest to be staged at the Maverick Theatre, Woodstock, on Saturday afternoon, May 7, as part of the county-wide entertainment being offered to visitors to the Apple Blossom Festival.

Directors of the Woodstock Winter Sports Association, promoting the square dance contest, have been approached by an emissary of a group of square dancers who desire to enter the contest listed as the Masked Marvels. There are various rumors abroad as to the identity of the octet but the guessing is unofficial even though the majority opinion is that the eight dancers are men and women who resent the fact that they were not included in the team that will number.

Teams already announced as organization. Inasmuch as the entries include the Cheats and Mt. Marion team has withdrawn due to difficulties in getting their own music the Winter Sports Association has accepted the personnel of its team which is Masked Marvels entry and the contending teams will be, in addition, the Cheats and Swings, Irvington Inn, Wheel Inn and Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club.

The last named has submitted the Masked Marvels entry and the E. L. Short, David Van de Bogart, Roger Eltinge, William Spann, Jr., Charlotte Van de Bogart, Mrs. David Van de Bogart, Mrs. Lillis Norton and Mrs. Luther Bonesteel. The woman will be costumed in Woodstock dress and the men in orange shirts and brown trousers.

Interest in square dancing in Ulster county is keen at the present time and received considerable impetus when it was featured at the Woodstock sesquicentennial celebration a year ago. It led to the organization of the Cheats and Swings who have given a large number of exhibitions including an appearance before Governor Herbert Lehman in Albany.

Dyrus Cook, who organized the Cheats and Swings, has given much time to the study of the history of square dancing and reports that it dates back to France of the 11th century and was introduced into England at the time of the Norman conquest.

Mr. Cook says, "Such square dance terms as 'Allemande left', 'Chasse', 'dos a dos', 'ladies bal' and 's'cents contra' dance testify to French origin, but so typically rural American are many of the calls that one might assume the square dance to be purely American in origin." Swing your honey like swinging on a gate was never called in French court circles. You know where, and I don't care" is American to the core. "Dance as pretty as you can, swing your honey and Allemande are just too good for Europe to have originated."

Mrs. Thomas painter, formerly of this village, is spending several months at Providence, R. I., with her friend, Miss Ellen Richards.

The meeting was called to order by the president, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Walter Williams reported for Ed Huben, saying that the yearly booklet, "Vacationists' Rendezvous," would go to the printer shortly after May 1 and that it would be ready for distribution before the end of that month.

The question of a sports director for the summer months was brought up and a lengthy discussion followed. It was the opinion of those present that the burden of paying for such a man should fall upon the boarding-house proprietors rather than the organization. Leon Hill moved that the proprietors of such houses should meet with the board of directors and give their opinion. This was approved and a meeting was called for April 26, at Freeman's Hall. It was further suggested that this would be a good time to complete the list of advertisers for this year and also to secure such housing information as is necessary in order that an information booth might be set up for the festival week-end.

Joseph O'Connor reported that Lewis Purdy, local sign painter, had been given an order to re-finish each of the road signs located at township entrances.

A communication was read from Mayor Lewis saying that word had been received from A. J. Snyder of the Century Cement Co., revoking the right of the public to use the garbage dump on his property at Binnewater after May 1. The letter said people had been very careless in the use of this property and that he had been informed by his lawyer that his company was left open to liability in case of accident.

No services in the M. E. Church on Sunday as the pastor, the Rev. F. G. Baker, is attending the annual conference of M. E. Churchmen held in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks were guests on Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. George Long at Kingston.

Mrs. Clarence Pine and daughters, Miss Francis Pine and Miss Doris Pine, are enjoying the weekend with friends and relatives in Brooklyn.

The Grange meeting on Monday night was well attended, although the weather was stormy. Eight members of Asbury Grange were present and presented a most interesting program consisting of poems, and extracts from the constitution of the United States.

All members of the Grange are urged to attend the Huguenot Grange at New Paltz on Saturday evening.

The third and fourth degree initiation which was to be held May 2 has been postponed until May 16 at which time Deputy Sheriff B. Story of Ulster Park will visit the Stone Ridge Grange.

A degree team has been formed and an enjoyable time is expected.

Planting Is a Challenge To the Bugs and Weeds

Almost everyone can be a pretty good gardener in April and May, when spring is in the blood. The real test comes during the summer, when weeds shoot up to smother plants, and bugs fly in to eat them.

How your garden grows depends upon how it is afflicted with these pests and what you do about them.

Cultivating with a hoe—or a trowel if your garden is small—after every rainfall is a big help. It helps get rid of the weeds (though you may have to hand-pick some) and saves moisture. Do this work when the soil is moist but not sticky.

The Two Bug Groups

As for insect pests, there are two general groups, from the standpoint of control methods—sucking insects like aphids and leaf hoppers, which suck the sap, and chewing insects, like beetles and caterpillars, which eat part of the plant, explained Montague Free in "Gardening" (Harcourt, Brace).

The suckers must be actually hit by the insecticide used to fight them; the chewers are fought by applying a poison evenly on the plant parts they attack.

For each type there are many commercial sprays and powders, or you can mix your own. For sucking insects, here is one solution: Mr. Free offers: one teaspoonful of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate, a scant ounce of flaked or powdered soap, and a gallon of water. For chewing insects you can try a mixture of one and a half pounds of dry lead arsenate to 50 gallons of water. (But don't use this at the same time as a spray containing soap, or foliage will be injured.)

A compressed air sprayer holding a quart should be large enough for backyard gardeners. Handle the poison cautiously, store them under lock and key, and chase children and pets from the areas sprayed.

Hand-Picking Pests

A good way to fight some of the pests is to hand-pick them, dropping them in a can of kerosene. (If cats and dogs are too fond of the garden, Mr. Free reports that two teaspoonsful of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate in one gallon of water, sprayed on plants and shrubs, may keep them away.)

When you water the garden, use enough to wet the soil to a depth of at least a foot. Evening is the best time, if there is less evaporation then.

Most ornamental trees and shrubs do not require much annual pruning, and unless you know all about the process, better do nothing but remove dead and diseased branches. But if you transplant a tree or a bush, prune the top to compensate for the loss of roots.

And keep in mind that a plant's one aim in life is to produce seeds. When that's accomplished, the plant is ready to die. So if you strip of faded blossoms, thus preventing seedling, you'll get more flowers.

Fragrant Flowers More Beautiful

Fragrance is a precious quality in flowers which formerly was valued as highly as color. Old-fashioned flowers were not so flamboyantly beautiful as the modern plants; their attraction was a more subtle nature, and so our grandmothers took more delight in the delicate perfume of flowers than we do.

This offers a suggestion to those who like to be a little different. Plant a fragrant corner in the border, take your friends there in the evening, when the scent is always more evident (maybe because the colors are less dominant). See if they are not delighted by the fragrance of the evening flowers.

A fragrant corner will not be the most brilliant spot in the garden for some of the most fragrant flowers wear an inconspicuous dress. For example the evening-scented stocks (matthiola bicornis), which give such an abundance of perfume they may well be grown for that alone. But many fragrant flowers have been highly developed by modern plant breeding and may be planted for color and beauty as well. Mignonette (reseda odorata) is one of these, and has no superior for its delicate scent. It makes excellent cutting material to combine with other flowers.

There are many fragrant blooms that can be grown from spring-sown seeds. The ten-week stocks are a delightful race of garden subjects which come in a long color range. Nicotiana, the sweet-scented tobacco plants, should have a place in every garden. Their long tubular flowers close in midday but open as evening approaches and give forth a rich perfume.

The sweet sultans and sweet scented geraniums have soft fragrance and add beauty to the garden picture. They are fast growing annuals. Sow seeds of the sweet sultans (cineraria) broadcast where they are to grow. The datura (nigella's trumpet) is another fragrant annual which is beautiful. It may be started early in the house, or a tuber.

The evening primrose is suited for its heavy scent, grows of during the evening hours. Its yellow and white blooms, attractive during the daytime, seem to reflect the moon at night. The heliotrope is another universal favorite.

Treat Now for Gladiolus Thrips

Geneva, N. Y., April 22—Flower growers who have been troubled with thrips on their "glads" with the resulting injury to the blossoms and foliage of these popular flowers have the choice of three methods for treating the corolla before planting to destroy any of the insects that may have overwintered on the corolla and also have recourse to a summer spray if the thrips make their appearance in the garden next summer. This information is contained in a statement by Dr. F. L. Gambrell, entomologist at the State Experiment Station here.

So far as is known, the gladiolus thrip cannot survive New York winters in the field, but it does overwinter on the corolla in storage. This makes possible effective control of the pest by destroying the overwintering insects. Dr. Gambrell describes three methods for doing this, two of them being in the nature of fumigants and the third a poison dip. Full directions for each method of treatment will be supplied upon request to the Station at Geneva.

PLANTING IN THE SHADE

By The Master Gardener

Many suburban gardeners have shady spots in their grounds which are the despair of their lives, and some city gardeners have practically all shade to contend with, due to the close proximity of tall buildings, and the presence of a tree or two on their tiny plots.

But a satisfactory garden can be achieved in such areas, with an appeal all its own, if the proper plants are chosen and if sufficient humus and plant food is furnished to the plants. Many failures with shady gardens are due to the fact that people fail to realize the trees and shrubs which shade also draw a great amount of plant food from the soil, and thus impoverish it. The large plants, like trees and shrubs, also require a great deal of moisture; thus, if all the vegetation is not to suffer through excessive dryness and starvation, there must be sufficient humus in the soil, so it is capable of absorbing and holding moisture and plant food. At the same time, drainage must be good, and the soil must be well aerated.

Therefore, the first step to take if you wish to establish a garden in a shady area, is to see that your soil is in good physical condition, and that it has a plentiful supply of available plant food. If your soil is hard and packed, work in sand and peat moss until the texture is good—friable, loamy, and good organic content. Then, after you have pulverized and leveled the area, apply a complete balanced plant food, applying one rounded tablespoonful per square foot of surface area (equivalent to 4 lbs. per 100 square feet in larger areas) and work lightly into the soil.

The selection of plants is the next thing of importance. Where you have only partial shade, you will find you have a wide selection, but where there is full shade, you will have to choose carefully.

Plant Rubbish Helps Garden

Ithaca, N. Y., April 22—Old straw, leaves, and other materials that you rake from your garden and lawn this year can be put to good use as artificial manure, according to R. C. Allen of the College of Agriculture at Cornell University.

Plant trash rots quickly and makes good fertilizer if it is layered in a pile a few feet deep with a few pounds of fertilizer scattered over each layer. One pound of ammonium sulfate, two pounds of limestone, and one pound of superphosphate added to every hundred pounds of straw or leaves give good results.

The material rots most quickly if kept thoroughly moist, and if the top of the pile is flat or slopes inward, the rain will soak back. If the weather is extremely dry, more water should be added.

When thoroughly rotted, this artificial manure makes an excellent fertilizer for most plants. It may be applied freely without danger of burning tender plants, and as it is practically odorless, can be used freely about the house and grounds.

Cars Collide on East Kingston Hill

Cars driven by Roy DeMico of East Kingston and Frank Simpson of 284 Clifton Avenue, Kingston, were damaged when they sideswiped near the top of East Kingston hill about 6:30 Thursday evening.

DeMico was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Vredenburg and arraigned before Justice John Watzka on a charge of reckless driving. The hearing was adjourned to May 5, DeMico agreeing to pay for the damage done to Simpson's car in the meantime, in which event, it is understood that the charge will not be pressed.

The accident happened when DeMico, turning out of the East Kingston road, heading toward Kingston, collided with the Simpson car which was proceeding north on Route 32.

Rosendale Society First Reception in New York April 29

The Trustees of the Rosendale Society, on the eve of their first reception and dance, have completely reorganized their entertainment schedules and are now prepared to offer to members and guests, at the Grand Ball Room of the Park Central Hotel, in the city of New York, on the night of April 29, as a special feature, a complete floor show presented by 35 professional entertainers. This new attraction has been obtained almost at the last moment, after over two months angling on the part of the trustees and is only now made available through the intervention of one of Rosendale's greatest boosters.

The Rosendale Society is thus enabled within the period of two and one-half months from its creation, to offer as its premier presentation, radio's celebrated swing band, "The Aristocrats" with the original cast of 10; an entire floor show that will startle and delight you—not a girlie show—something new and different, with a complete program presented by 35 artists of outstanding merit, and a complete night of dancing, with a special novelty quarter-hour dance number presented by five dance teams who have just completed a successful engagement on a city-wide circuit.

The admission charge to the reception and dance is nominal, the added attractions will be presented entirely without additional charge.

By this special offering the trustees make a bid for the public's approval of their enterprise, seek to encourage all of the former Rosendalers to join in the work of the society, and to demonstrate that their society is made of just the proper material to become the outstanding up-state society within the metropolitan district.

The amended entertainment schedule just announced by the trustees for the affair is as follows:

8-9 p. m.—Reception.
9-10 p. m.—Floor show.

10 p. m.-2 a. m.—Dancing, with a novelty dance number as a feature during this period.

The trustees have arranged to care for a capacity crowd and plan to make this event an outstanding one in the history of the society.

Gilbert K. Woolsey, one of the trustees, at their final meeting last night said:

"To all of the friends of Rosendale we make a last appeal to give our infant society a helping hand in this our attempt to get going. No society is greater than the ambitions of its founders nor the spirit which lies in the fighting hearts of its members. I am sure that everyone will agree that your committee is a bunch of go-getters and all we ask now is, that the public lend us its support for this the first get-together of the boys and girls from Rosendale."

As a convenience to our friends who have not yet acquired tickets, the trustees have deposited a small number of tickets with E. Frank Flanagan, at his store on Wall street, and a few remaining tickets may still be obtained for the regular admission fee.

St. Ursula Sister Academy Gives Play

Last evening at St. Mary's school Hall the girls of St Ursula's Academy presented the dramatic society of the Academy of Our Lady of Lourdes of New York city. In the play, "Anne of Green Gables," adapted from the story by L. M. Montgomery.

The story of Anne, the orphan girl who came unwanted to live with Marilla Cuthbert and her brother Matthew and finally won her way into the hearts of the bachelor and spinster is well known as one of the stories nearly every person has read and loved in a child. The play was exceptionally well given and the parts were well cast.

Particular bistrolic honors should go to Anne Thomas who played the lead and to Ann Hollins and Irene Breslin, who played the respective parts of Marilla and Matthew Cuthbert. One member of the Academy of St. Ursula was in the cast, Joan Van Gorder, who played the small child, Elsie Spencer.

The play had three acts and two interior stage sets. The sets were attractive and were changed in a comparatively small time. The action of the play took place thirty years ago and the costume and interior decorating were in keeping with the period.

Between the first and second act Miss Irene Bonner, a member of the visiting Academy sang two selections, "L'Amour Toujours l'Amour" by Fritzi and "Alice Blue Gown" by Tierney. Miss Bonner has a lovely clear, light soprano voice which is not forced and retains its delicate purity in all registers. She was presented with a bouquet and responded with an encore.

Other members of the supporting cast were Kathleen Kohlhorst, Dorothy Larney, Alice Sarback, Dorothy Carlson, Catherine Robinson, Margaret Daly, Mary Berkner, Agnes Connolly, Irene Bonner, and Catherine Sheehan.

The play was presented in the morning for the children of the city and the adult performance was in the evening.

Engagement Announced

250 Male Voices And Two Soloists At Festival Concert

MISS DOROTHY BAKER

Choral music of a very different type usually heard in Kingston will be offered to concert goers and true music lovers on Friday evening, May 6, at the special Festival Concert being arranged by the Mendelssohn Club of this city. It is indeed a rarity that five men's vocal organizations, all under the direction of one conductor can be brought together and massed into one performance such as will be given on the opening evening of the festival. In fact, the entire program will be one of unusual surprises for the audience.

The vocal clubs under the direction of Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh, director of music at Union College, Schenectady, united to make over 250 male voices, come from Troy, the Troy Vocal Club; Poughkeepsie, the Utterer Club; Schenectady, the Schrubert Club and the Union College Glee Club; and Kingston's Mendelssohn Club.

The two guest artists will be Miss Dorothy Baker, soprano at the distinguished St. Bartholomew's Church on New York's Park avenue, and Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, eminent composer, pianist and conductor, who has appeared on so many of the Mendelssohn's concert programs. Miss Baker brings to her art a fine flare for the dramatic and a rhythmic effulgence that lend sparkle and brilliance to her encore provoking performances. Since her return to the States, Dorothy Baker has been a favored soloist with prominent orchestral organizations, oratorio societies and glee clubs.

Dr. Spross needs no advance press notices as the appearance of his name on any program is proof that the program will be outstanding in the musical field. Dr. Spross, in addition to accompanying Miss Baker, will also favor with a group of piano solos, another special feature of the program on May 6 will be the singing by the massed choirs of Handel's "The Lost Chord," accompanied by a Hammond Organ especially installed for the occasion. The Hammond organist will also play during the intermission of the concert. The organ will be in place during the three days of the festival and will be used in other concerts.

Another special feature of the program will be the singing of Handel's "Wherefore You Walk," arranged for male voices by Dr. Spross.

Dancing will follow the concert with music being furnished by Paul Zucca's orchestra. Tickets are on sale for a nominal sum and will include both the concert and the dance.

Dr. Katherine Todd to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus H. Todd of Poughkeepsie announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to George Crosby Lyon, son of Mrs. M. S. Lyon of Ardmore, Pa., and the late Dr. M. S. Lyon of Atlantic City, N. J. Mr. Lyon is a graduate of Rutgers University, is an instructor in the high school at Flemington, N. J. Dr. Todd is an osteopathic physician of this city. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Numbers Announced For "Dreamland"

The annual Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserve show, "Dreamland" will be presented at the municipal auditorium on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with a cast of 350 younger members of the association. All dances have been coached by Miss Otilia Riccobono, and she will be assisted at the piano by Mrs. Raymond Kinnall. Attractive color and costuming will add much to the entertainment, which is always a "high spot" in the association program for the Girl Reserves.

The program is as follows:

Opening Chorus—"Let's Sail to Dreamland." Dreamer, Miss Jane Gildersleeve; Dream Queen, Misses Jeanna Dubois, Marlene Dubois, Edwina Schultz, Shirley Fowler, Eleanor Franz, Virginia Luedtke, and ensemble Mother Goose Tales; Snow White and Seven Dwarfs—Miss Anna Manro and Blue Bird Club

Tickets may be secured from members of the cast, or at the Y. W. C. A. and also at the door.

The two guest artists will be Miss Dorothy Baker, soprano at the distinguished St. Bartholomew's Church on New York's Park avenue, and Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, eminent composer, pianist and conductor, who has appeared on so many of the Mendelssohn's concert programs.

Miss Baker brings to her art a fine flare for the dramatic and a rhythmic effulgence that lend sparkle and brilliance to her encore provoking performances. New Choir Will Sing Cantata Sunday Night

The Trinity M. E. Choir of Newburgh will present "The New Life," a short cantata by Rogers, Sunday evening. It contains numerous beautiful anthems rich in harmony and interspersed with vocal solo and quartet, and is very appropriate for this season of the year. This will be the first time the choir has ever given this work.

The service will be in charge of the Rev. Alexander Puff, who will give an explanation of the text making clear its dramatic content.

Soloists for the evening will be Mrs. Andrew Sterling, Mrs. Arnold, soprano; Mrs. Josephine Irving, contralto; Sidney Everett, tenor, and Charles T. Everett, basso.

The regular vested choir will sing solos and cantatas to lower the highest type of sacred music will be under the direction of John W. Nichols, with Miss Helen Crookston at the organ.

The service will begin at 7:30 p.m. promptly, and the public cordially invited to attend.

FUN FOR YOU WHEREVER YOU GO WHEN YOU TEACH YOURSELF TO TAP

What pep! Her clever taps make her the "shoo-in" star of this Big Apple jamboree. A few weeks ago she didn't know one step from another.

Lots of lessons. Lots of practicing? No, you can learn to tap quickly at home with diagrams—far from trying eyes.

The simple waltz clog combination we've diagrammed gives you the idea. It uses three tap sounds and you only need to learn about three more taps to do any kind of tap dance.

Try your skill. On Count 1, a Straight Tap—lift up left foot, keeping it level with the floor; strike floor sharply with ball of left foot. On 2, a Toe Tap—lift right foot back of left foot, strike floor with the tip of right toe. On 3, a snappy Hop Tap on left foot. Let your taps ring out! Big kick when you begin clicking in time to the music!

The favorite fox-trots, marches, rumbas practice fitting tap sounds this same simple way. From then on it's just a step to being a full-fledged tap dancer—entertaining friends with lively routines at barn dances and parties.

Left Road When He Tried to Pass Bus
the New Jersey car had been in a line of three vehicles traveling north—a truck and trailer, and the bus being the other two. The bus started to pass the truck and about the same time Wittenberg started to pass. There wasn't room for the three vehicles on the two-strip pavement and the Chevrolet had to take to the ditch.

After some discussion the matter was adjusted and no arrests were made.

Larger Airports

Washington, April 22 (UPI)—Works progress officials said today that enlargement of municipal airports to accommodate larger aircraft may become an important work-relief project. Airplanes are outgrowing the facilities of many of the country's landing fields, they said. Officials emphasized, however that WPA would not initiate a program of airfield expansion but would respond to local requests for federal funds.

A chicken pie dinner was served by the ladies of the church, and following dinner the congregational meeting was held. The three trustees elected were Everett V. K. Schutt, Samuel H. Peay and Dr. Arthur M. Cragin.

The congregation also elected four deacons for terms of three years each. They were Alfred R. Finley, Dorr E. Monroe, Ralph B. Nevills and Terry Staples.

The financial report submitted by the board of trustees showed that the church was in excellent condition financially, while the reports of the various societies and organizations of the church showed much work accomplished during the past year. Mrs. Arthur M. Cragin submitted the report of the work of the Ladies Aid Society; Mrs. Harry G. Smith for the Woman's Missionary Society; Mrs. Everett V. K. Schutt for the Service Club; Byron V. Stevens for the Men's Club; Superintendent William Hendricks for the Bible School; Miss Emily Cragin for the Junior Guild; and Roger Goodsell for the church choir.

No report was received from the Junior Christian Endeavor Society as its organizer and superintendent, Miss Mary F. Van Allen, had died on Tuesday. Miss Van Allen has been active in the work of the church for the past 16 years and her work was eulogized in brief remarks by Professor Arthur H. Russell, Irving W. Scott, Superintendent Hendricks, Mrs. J. W. Scott and Mrs. Arthur R. Russell.

Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Alpert Is Held For Grand Jury

Hymon Alpert of 13 German street, waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury when arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Matthew V. Cahill. Bail was fixed at $200. Alpert, who was arrested Thursday by the police, is charged with buying junk from children.

Charles Lovgren of Richmond Park, was arrested Thursday charged with operating an automobile without having a chauffeur's or operator's license. The hearing was held open until late

Methodists Urged To Aid Weak Units

The 139th annual New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church opened yesterday at Christ Church, Park Avenue and Sixteenth Street, New York city, with nearly 250 ministers present. Bishop Charles W. Flint, of Atlanta, Ga., former Chancellor of Syracuse University, is presiding.

The conference area, which includes 225 parishes, comprises Southern New York State, including Manhattan and the Bronx, Northwest Connecticut, Southwest Massachusetts and the counties bordering the Hudson river to a point just south of Albany.

At the afternoon session the Rev. Joseph W. Chasey presented the district superintendent's report of the Kingston district. He said many churches in small villages were "weak," but advocated "intensive cultivation" to keep them going. To close them down, it was asserted, would result in centralizing the church in large communities as has been done in the education system. The result in the school system, despite the advantages of compulsory attendance and free transportation, the report said, is "not so much to brag about."

Dr. Chasey's report said the decrease in Sunday-school attendance was due to confused theology among church leaders.

The Rev. Peter C. Weyant delivered the report of the Newburgh district. A memorial service for 12 pastors who died during the year was conducted by the Rev. Fred W. Stacey, of Poughkeepsie. The conference will continue through Monday.

Jewish Lawyer Wins Freedom for Nazi Follower

New York, April 22 (UPI)—Appointed by a war veteran judge to defend a Nazi sympathizer, Joseph Ellison, Jewish lawyer, won freedom for his client, Otto Gelsler, 17, in felony court yesterday on charges of carrying a knife with a five-inch blade.

It was the strange aftermath of a bloody riot between Nazi sympathizers and American Legionnaires Wednesday night, climaxing when Judge Matthew Troy discharged Gelsler, who appeared in court still garbed in Nazi storm troopers regalia.

Gelsler told the court the knife was part of the Nazi uniform and that he had obtained it in Germany. The knife bore the symbol "Blut und Ehre" (Blood and Honor).

Magistrate Troy, calling attention to the fact that Gelsler was being represented by a Jewish lawyer, Troy said: "This demonstrates the worthwhileness of Americanism."

The trouble between the Nazi sympathizers and war veterans occurred when Legionnaires attended a Bund meeting in honor of Adolf Hitler's birthday.

Commandery Here Host to 5th Zone

Rondout Commandery, No. 52, Knights Templar, will be host to the commanderies of the fifth zone in the annual Zone Conference and School of Instruction to be held in the Asylum, 280 Wall street, Saturday, April 23, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. The ritual work will be exemplified by the officers of the different commanderies and at 6:30 o'clock a supper will be served at the Hotel Stuyvesant. All officers of Rondout Commandery and the members of the platoon are urged to be in their places for this meeting. The conference will be under the supervision of Sir Alfred R. Gobett, eminent grand warden of the Grand Commandery.

Dewey Sits for Portrait by Melik

New York, April 22—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey will sit today for his portrait by Sosa Melik, in the private office of his headquarters. Mr. Dewey humorously admitted that "this is the first time he is put on the spot, cornered, cross-examined and sent to the chair!"

Sosa Melik will "sentence" the former special rackets prosecutor "to a minimum of three hours, pending good behavior."

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. Francis F. Barth of 41 Gage street, a daughter, Betty Lou, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William Paulus of 123 Highland avenue, a son, Robert Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Lewis of Woodstock, a son, James Hardwick, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Wolven of 434 Washington avenue, a son, Burdette Harrison, at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius J. Raftery of Ulster Park, a daughter, Sylvia Ann, at Benedictine Hospital.

Nazarene Services
Special services will be conducted at the Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf street, Sunday at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the Binghamton Gospel team, composed of a group of business men of all denominations. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend both services. In the afternoon the Gospel team will have services at the Christian Missionary Alliance, starting at 3 o'clock.

Spring Vacation

Washington, April 22 (UPI)—Congress began a brief spring vacation today. Because a large number of members wanted to go to Charleston, S. C., for an azalea festival, the Senate and House recessed until Monday.

and avenge their stinging defeat there.

Resuming activity along the Yellow river, Chinese said guerrilla forces ambushed a Japanese column near Yungho in Shansi Province, killing 200 in one attack and 100 more in a raid after

Taber predicted inflation and said:

"That means destruction of the government credit, a reduction in the price of government bonds, a lowering of the purchasing power of the wages of the workingman and the complete stagnation of industry."

It was estimated that 1,212,453,360 barrels had been withdrawn from the East Texas oil field by March, 1938.

Stang Gives Talks On Constitution

Frederick Stang, clerk of the Board of Supervisors, is spreading enlightenment on the Constitution of the state these days. Wednesday noon he gave a talk before the Rotary Club and that night addressed the Republican Club at Highland. Tonight he is scheduled to appear before the Men's Club of the First Reformed Church.

Mr. Stang is stressing in his talk the background of the constitution, why it is necessary and just what it is for. The talks are appropriate at this time as the convention to amend the constitution is getting under way in Albany. Partisan angles are being avoided in the talks and no attempt is being made to discuss or analyze proposed amendments.

Daylight Saving Starts Sunday

Daylight saving time automatically goes into effect in Kingston on Sunday morning at 2 o'clock under the provisions of an ordinance adopted by the Common Council during the administration of the late Palmer Canfield, Jr., as mayor. Householders should not forget to push the hands of the clocks ahead one hour before retiring Saturday night.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, April 22—The regular meeting of Hope Lodge, No. 65, K. of P., will be held this evening.

The Dorcas Society will enjoy a pot luck supper in the Reformed Church hall at 8 o'clock this evening by the Christian Endeavor Society.

The Ever Ready Club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Amelia Ross this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mills, who have been spending sometime with Mrs. Mills' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton, returned to their home in Rochester today. Mrs. Floyd Beesmer and sons, Kenneth and Ross, are visiting relatives in South Fallsburgh.

gave this reply in a voice breaking with emotion:

"She has made me! My married life has been a most wonderful experience. It has been in every way a true comradeship. My wife has known all the secrets of my political life. She has shared my successes; she has encouraged me when I was despondent; she has advised me in my problems when I needed help."

Five Sentenced to Death

New York, April 22 (AP)—Five youths, ranging in age from 18 to 27, were sentenced to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing by Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., today for the boldip murder of Detective Michael J. Foley on April 10, 1937. The five are Dominick Guariglia, 18, Joseph H. O'Loughlin, 23, Arthur Friedman, 21, Isidor Zimmerman, 21, and Philip Chafee, 27. They were convicted April 14. Judge Nott fixed the week of May 20 for execution, and denied motions to set aside the jury's verdict.

Calhoun was held in great esteem by his native state, which struck off a medal proclaiming "Calhoun the first President of the Confederacy." He died in 1850 without achieving his ambition to become President of the United States.

The Nine Muses

The muses were, according to the classic mythology, the nine daughters of Zeus and Mnemosyne. Originally they were goddesses of memory only, but they came later to be identified with individual arts and sciences. The nine, with their respective attributes, were Calliope, presiding over eloquence and heroic poetry; chief of the muses; Clio, muse of heroic exploits and history; Euterpe, presiding over music; Thalia, gayety, pastoral life, and comedy; Melpomene, song, harmony, and tragedy; Terpsichore, choral dance and song; Erato, the lyre and erotic poetry; Polymnia, oratory and the sacred lyric; Urania, celestial phenomena and astronomy.

Classification of Snow
Besides classifying snow as either granular or crystalline, the flakes are classified as columnar or tabular. In a less technical category are powder snow (light and soft and good for skiing) and sand snow. The latter variety, reported by explorers, is so cold that it is slippery. It is impossible to ride or slide on sand snow. Old snow may become "firm" snow, the latter consisting of the crusted forms. Red snow gains its peculiar hue from the dust through which it falls.

Compelled to Kill Squirrels
The large number of squirrels were such a menace in the early days that the Ohio legislature passed a law compelling each person to kill a certain number of them each year. The number was to be determined by each township board of trustees, and those who failed to fill their quota were subject to a fine.

Use of the Oregon Boot
Once Oregon was famous for a contrivance that was held in pardoned distaste by prisoners who happened to find themselves confined within the cold gray walls of the state penitentiary. The Oregon boot, they called it, and it was used as an efficient but not altogether humane method of keeping prisoners from dashing off on their own.

Weight of Ship Governs Depth Vessel Will Sink

Pressure in itself does not enter into the problem of how far an ocean liner would sink, because the pressure of a fluid is exerted equally from all directions. Increased density, according to an authority in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which is due chiefly to the greater pressure, is not an important factor in relation to this question, because water, like other fluids, is nearly incompressible, and the water at the bottom of the ocean in the deepest places weighs only about 5 per cent more than an equal volume of water at the surface.

A body weighing more than its equal volume of water at any depth will sink and continue to sink until it reaches the bottom; one weighing less will float on the surface, and one weighing the same will stay wherever placed. In other words, an object will sink in water if its average density, including entrapped air, is greater than the density of the water in which it is immersed.

Sea water weighs about 64 pounds a cubic foot at the surface and about 64 pounds a cubic foot in the deepest known places. Any object weighing more than 64 pounds a cubic foot will sink to the bottom in such water. All ships, if filled with water, will weigh more than 64 pounds a cubic foot and therefore, would sink to the bottom of the sea immediately. It is possible that a ship of the old wooden type, carrying a cargo of low density bulk, might have the same weight as its equal volume of water, and after filling with water would remain suspended in the sea.

John C. Calhoun Served

U. S. in Many Capacities

John C. Calhoun, South Carolina's distinguished statesman and orator, who was born March 18, 1782, served his country in many capacities twice as Vice President of the United States. He was secretary of war under Monroe and in 1844 was appointed secretary of state under Tyler. In 1845 he was elected senator from South Carolina and became the foremost champion of the South.

A man with the courage of his convictions, Calhoun believed in the most extreme form of states' rights and developed the theory of the nullification ordinance of 1832. He defended slavery and furnished arguments which were to greatly influence the political course of the South in regard to slavery.

While Calhoun was Vice President under President Jackson, wrote Leslie Hartley in the Washington Star, it was the only time in American history that two Southerners held these two high offices during the same term. Their political views differed widely, however, and Calhoun resigned to enter the United States senate. This was also the only time in American history a Vice President voluntarily left office.

Calhoun was held in great esteem by his native state, which struck off a medal proclaiming "Calhoun the first President of the Confederacy." He died in 1850 without achieving his ambition to become President of the United States.

AMOCO Banquet and Show

Left to right as they attended the AMOCO banquet at the Governor Clinton Hotel last Tuesday were: Percival Bennett, chief of police, Middletown; F. A. Brown, of Albany, assistant manager; G. M. Wheaton, of New York city, general manager; T. R. Campbell, division manager, and Mayor C. J. Hetschuan of Kingston. Following dinner the 500 dealers and employees of the American Oil Company retired to the municipal auditorium where a play, "Partners in Service," was presented.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, April 22—Mrs. W. H. Denby held Wednesday afternoon a birthday party in honor of her daughter Grace's 10th birthday. Games, refreshments and a tour of the Roberts' farm were enjoyed. A number of children from the Poughkeepsie Day School attended, including Charles Denby, Mary and Albert Beal, Robert Gilkenson and members of the fourth grade at the school.

Mrs. Annie Connor, and son, John, returned home from St. Petersburg, Fla., Tuesday, after classes of the guest of honor. These included: George Wend, Graeme Poucher, Margaret Meyer, Jerry Acker, Elsie Van Kleeck, Thomas Vail, Madeline Miller, David Aldeburgh, Helen Porter, Claudia Post and James Neighbors. Also attending were: Miss Henry, Mr. Langdon and Mrs. Margaret Seymour, teachers at the school.

Mrs. Helen Dowd, of Milton, was tendered a bride's shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schmidt on Wednesday evening.

Miss Dowd will become the bride of John Kinsella, of Newburgh, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, April 30, in St. James' Church, Milton. The color scheme was orchid and yellow and gifts were arranged under an umbrella.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed. Among the guests present were: the Misses Mary and Betty Nameit, Katherine Cuminskey, Elizabeth Kaley, Alice Matthews, Frances Donobue, Cornelia Duis, Katherine Dowd, Lucila Ose, Ellen Conklin, and Mesdames Edward McNamee, Sr., Joseph Matthews, Vincent Gaffney, John Gaffney, Fred Schmidt, Sr., Gustav Schmidt, Michael Dowd, and James Conklin. Gifts were received from the following who could not attend: Miss Gertrude Mack, Mrs. Menzo Lippe and Miss Dorothy Snyder of Poughkeepsie.

The remodeling of the present high school building for use as a grade school building was discussed at some length at a meeting of the Board of Education.
